

A Snicker of Magic

Natalie Lloyd

Question	Reference	Question ID
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book is a big fat moon, pale white and lonesome looking, the only streetlight?	Page 1	Q0001
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book are a character's eyes sky blue and beautiful and full of all the sadness in the world?	Page 1	Q0002
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book does a character prop sock-striped toes on the dashboard?	Page 1	Q0003
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book does the wind swoosh through a van and fling a character's blond hair in a cloud of golden whirls and curls?	Page 1	Q0004
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book can a character shine when the rest of the world is dark?	Page 1	Q0005
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book do a character's shoulders relax when she is about to settle into a good story?	Page 2	Q0006
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book does a mountain hide a town high-up-away from the rest of the world?	Page 2	Q0007
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book does a forest stand up tall around a river and catch a town's secrets and songs in its branches?	Page 2	Q0008
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book is a character's story voice like something between a summer breeze and a lullaby?	Page 2	Q0009
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book is it said that some people can catch stars in Mason jars?	Page 2	Q0010
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book can some people sing up thunderstorms and dance up sunflowers?	Page 2	Q0011
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book can some people make others fall in love, remember something good or forget something bad?	Page 2	Q0012
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book is it said that some people can play a song and everybody in town, no matter where they are, stands up and dances?	Page 3	Q0013
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book do people glow in the dark?	Page 3	Q0014
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book does a character say, "Then why the hayseed would you ever leave a place like that?"	Page 3	Q0015
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book do some people fade when they are sad, first going colorless and then totally invisible?	Page 3	Q0016
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book does a town have a two-lane road and a traffic light that always stays green?	Page 3	Q0017
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book does a character say, "I can't imagine anybody or anything lonelier than that midnight moon"?	Page 4	Q0018
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book does a character think it would be awful to be sitting against ten thousand stars without arms to reach out and hold a single one?	Page 4	Q0019
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book does a van make a per-clunkity-clunk sound and a boom-clackity sound?	Page 4	Q0020
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book does the night air smell like baking cookies?	Page 4	Q0021
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book do good things happen when a character's heart says "yes"?	Page 4	Q0022
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book is a painted sign shoved sideways into a hillside with a flickering spotlight shining on it?	Page 5	Q0023
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book is a town a "proper place to live"?	Page 5	Q0024
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book does a character know a sign used to say a town was a magical place to call home?	Page 5	Q0025
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book do stars spell out summer, wonder, and homespun?	Page 5	Q0026
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book do the yellow lines caught in a character's headlights curve into the words: stay, listen, and see?	Page 5	Q0027
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book does a character hear a poem in the midnight songs the crickets are whistling?	Page 5	Q0028
<input type="checkbox"/> In which book does a character hear the poem: Finally, At last, Forever, and now, Here you are?	Page 5-6	Q0029